

In Supporting Grantee Capacity: Strengthening Effectiveness Together, GrantCraft looks at how funders approach building capacity with grantees. Through examples from foundations ranging in size, mission, and geography, we explore various strategies for capacity building and the types of awareness that funders can choose to incorporate in decision making to facilitate informed, thoughtful judgments about strengthening organizations.

Use these playful illustrations as a reminder of what to consider when thinking about capacity-building investments. You can even print them and pin them to your office wall! These themes are more deeply explored in our guide, which can be found at grantcraft.org/supportingcapacity.

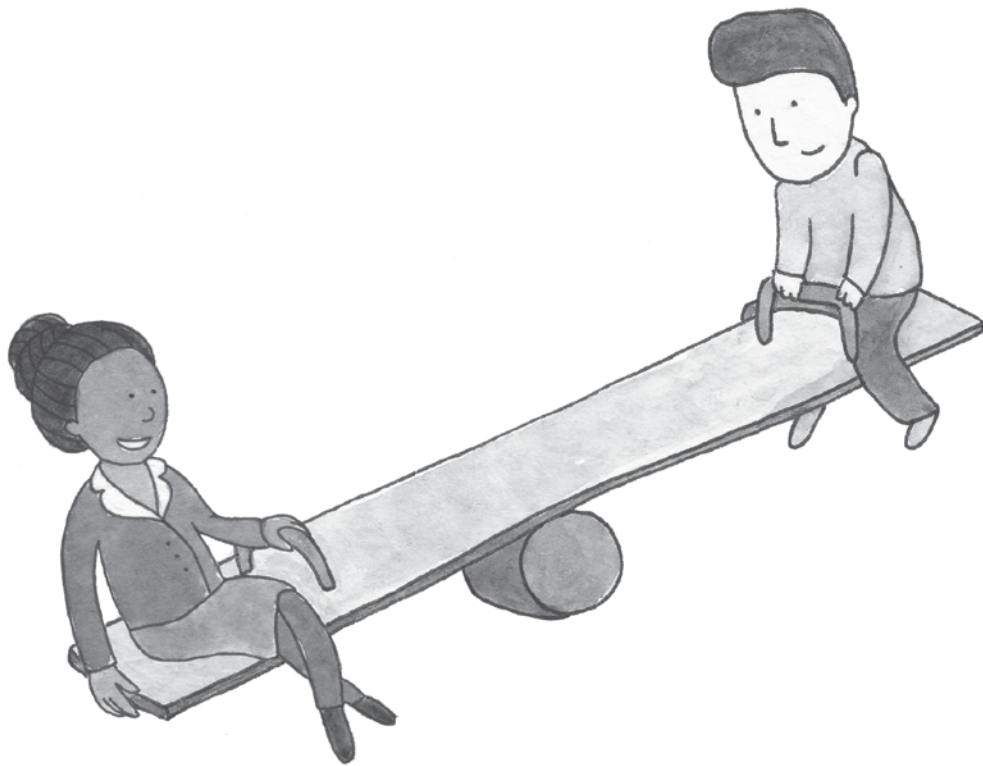

They all get me there, but which one is my best path?

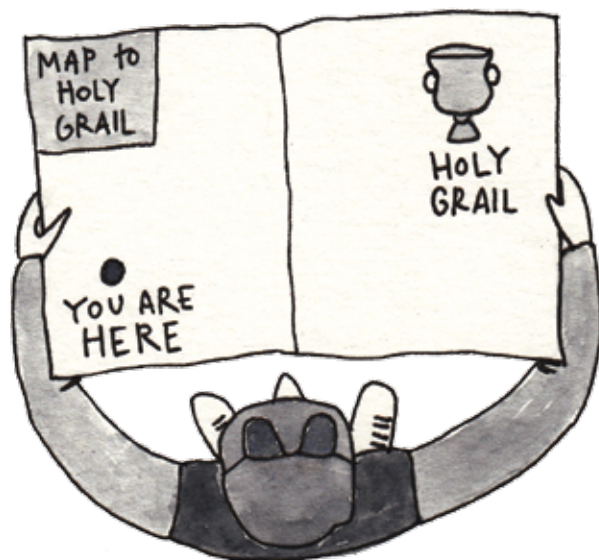

Decisions feel better when everything is in focus.

Know your potential, and your limits

Great minds think alike, but power drives perception.

Maybe I'll stumble on a path if I start out trying...
